Said He Had Only the Highest Praise For Them-General Shafter Is Reported to Have Over Six Thousand Sick For His Medical Officers . o Look After-Reports of Sick, Wounded and Deaths About Santiago.

Washington, Aug. 3.—General Shafter's health reports yesterday stated that he was caring for over 6,000 sick people, including Spanish soldiers, many of whom were found to be very the attempt to care for all hands probably explains in a measure the lack of adequate preparation of the transports employed in bringing home some of the wounded and sick.

The conditions on these boats were found to be so shocking as to demand an immediate official investigation, which was begun yesterday, and some court martials may be looked for in high places, unless it can be shown clearly that the lack of preparations was unavoidable.

An effort will be made by the war department to ascertain the official at Shafter's headquarters who is responsible for dispatching to the United States transports loaded with soldiers and which are alleged to be unfit for the work to which they are put. Surgeon General Sternberg has sent to Major Havard, the chief surgeon with Shafter's army, for particulars.

At the same time a rigid investigation is to be made of the alleged charges said to have been made by the Red Cross officials and others concerning the unitness of the transport Concho, ago. Secretary Alger has taken much ages in the event of the channel of New factorily to the members of the board, interest in this matter, following so man's creek being enlarged. About so far as the right of way for the C., L. about ten days since brought to New York a large number of sick and wounded, and which vessel also was said to be unsuitable. The investigation will be made by Colonel C. H. Heyl of the inspector general's office.

Yesterday afternoon Surgeon General Steinberg received the following telegram from Dr. A. Monas Lesser, the surgeon-in-chief of the American National Red Cross association, who was aboard the Concho on her trip from Santiago to New York:

"Every unfavorable criticism of persons belonging to the regular medical department of the United States army or navy published as being my statement is not authentic and has not come from me. I have only the highest praise for them."

This dispatch from Dr. Lesser was entirely voluntary, and is a source of gratification to General Sternberg, who feels that the officers of his department have met as far as they were able all demands upon them and have done their work in a satisfactory manner. The detailed condition of affairs at Santago together with a list of the deaths on each day is shown in telegrams from General Shafter, in substance in part as follows: Sanitary condition for July 29: Total sick, 4.164; total cases of fever, 3,212; new cases of fever, 609; cases of fever returned to duty, 792; deaths, 10.

Sanitary condition for July 30: Total sick, 3,892, total cases fever, 2,692; new cases fever, 543, cases fever returned to duty. 815; deaths on July 30, 6.

Sanitary report for July 31: Total sick, 4,255. total fever, 3,164; new case of fever, 653, cases of fever returned to duty, 722. More deaths on July 30 and those on 31st, 10 both together.

Spain Accepts and Peace is Assured.

MADRID, Aug. 3.-[By Associated Press]-Spain has accepted the American conditions and peace is assured. The rest is merely a matter of detail. The queen regent and the ministry regard the war as over. The ministers held a long session yesterday and their conclusion was that nothing was left to them but to accept the conditions imposed by President McKinley. Their only reservation was with regard to the method of putting the conditions in force. Until the minor details have been somewhat more fully gone over, the official announcement of the acceptance will not be made, but Spain is in the mood to grant everything, and merely hopes to save herself some slight degree of humiliation. It is probable that the delegates to arrange the peace will be appointed before the week is over. There are one or two which reached New York several days afternoon, resulted very unsatisage. But it is felt here that the leading demands of Presi dent McKinley having been unequivocally accepted, all the real stumbling blocks in the way of peace have been removed.

> Washington, Aug. 3.- By Associated Press -Shortly before midnight Secretary Alger, as he left the White House after a conference with the President, said the administration had received no official information that the Madrid government had accepted the terms of peace proposed by the United States. Unofficially, the President had been informed that the Spanish ministry had acceded to the terms of this country for a cession of the war. The unofficial advices have reached the President in the form not only of press dispatches, but of private dispatches from confidential agents of the United States gov-

The News in London.

London, Aug. 3.—[By Associated Press]—The Madrid correspondent of the Standard, telegraphing Tuesday, said in part: "The government's reply to the American terms was forwarded yesterday evening through M. Cambon, and there is a strong prospect that peace will be concluded. It is not to be supposed that the United States government will object to representations being made on the Philippine question and upon some pecuniary claims which were mooted by the United States in the West Indies. On all the remaining main issues Spain shows a disposition to assent to the American demands."

The Gibraltar correspondent of the Daily News, telegraphing Monday night, said. "The censorship is daily becoming more severe, and little is known beyond the fact that peace is assured. It is understood that the note from America asks only part of the Philippines, and that Senor Sagasta, having replied that the terms will be accepted, hostilities are consequently suspended. A commission will be appointed to determine the basis of peace. The chief difficulty, it is asserted in official circles, is as to the date and manner of the evacuation of the Span-15h possessions. There is also the question of the disposal of the war material in Cuba. Senor Sagasta, if he has a chance, will probably represent a restitution of the material as a diplomatic victory. It has just been asserted here that the premier has succeeded in obtaining slightly improved terms. The treaty will not be signed before Septem-

VIZCAYA'S HEROES.

FIGHTING BOB EVANS PRAISES THE SPANISH CREW.

The Examples of Heroism, er, More Properly, Devotion to Discipline and Buty, Could Never Be Surpassed-The Prisoners Cared for.

"Fighting Bob" Evans has nothing but praise for the officers and men of the Spanish cruiser Vizcaya, to which the lows gave the finishing blow in the great victory over Cervera's fleet. Captain Evans received the officers and men of the Vizcaya on board the big battleship after the destruction of the cruiser. Following are his comments on the conduct of the vanquished Spaniards:

"Some examples of heroism, or more properly, devotion to discipline and duty, could never be surpassed. One man on the lost Vizcaya had his left arm almost shot off just below the shoulder. The fragments were hanging by a small piece of skin. But he climbed, unassisted, over the side of the Iowa, and saluted as if on a visit, of ceremony.

"Immediately after him came a strong, hearty sailor whose left leg had been shot off above the knee. He was hoisted on board the lowa with a tackle, but never a whimper came from him. Gradually the mangled bodies and naked well men accumulated until it would have been almost difficult to recognize the Iowa as a United States battleship.

"Blood was all over her usually white quarterdeck, and 272 naked men were being supplied with water and food by those who a few minutes before had been using a rapid-fire battery on them. Finally came the boats, with Captain Eulate, commander of the Vizcaya, for whom a chair was lowered over the side, as he was evidently wounded.

"The captain's guard of marines was drawn up on the quarterdeck to salute | conduct at the battle of Springfield, him, and I stood waiting to welcome him. As the chair was placed on the deck the marines presented arms. Captain Eulate slowly raised himself in the chair, saluted me with grave digmity, unbuckled his sword belt, and, holding the hilt of the sword before him, kissed it reverently, with tears in his eyes, and then surrendered it to

HONOR SELDOM CONFERRED

Privilege to Which a Vote of Thanks by Congress Entitles the Recipient.

I have received several inquiries as to the effect of the vote of thanks by Congress to Admiral Dewey, his officers and men for their gallant victory at Manila. The impression seems to prevail in some places that the vote carried with it a seat in Congress. This is a mistake. The privilege of the floor, which is a great honor, is the right to enter the House of Representatives and the Senate at pleasure, except when the latter body is in secret erecutive session. It is conferred by law upon the President and the members of his Cabinet, justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, exmembers of Congress who are not interested as agents in pending legislation and those who have received by name a vote of thanks from Congress. Persons not entitled to the privilege are compelled to enter the galleries to hear the proceedings and to send their cards in to members they want to

When peace was restored on May 30, 1866, "the officers, soldiers and seamen of the United States, by whose valor and endurance, on land and on sea, the rebellion has been crushed," received a joint resolution expressing the gratitude of the nation.

HUMOROUS BROTHERS.

They Wen Wagers on the Strength of Their Own Homeliness.

Many years ago there were two brothers, named Joel and Jonathan, who were famous throughout Wayne county, Ind., because they were both such frights. One day they were on their way to Cincinnati by wagon, in the vehicle plunged into and out of the chuck holes that infected the way. Joel was said to be the next to the ugliest man in all the country round, and his brother took precedence.

The two brothers met a stranger who, attracted by the supremely homely face of Joel, stopped his horse and

"Excuse me, my friend, but would you mind tellin' me your name?" In a sepulchral tone that fitted well the hideous face, Joel replied:

"Well, I guess I hain't never done nothin' that would make me ashamed to tell my name. My name is Joel--"Where do you live, if it is a fair question?

'I live in Wayne county, Indianny.' "Well, stranger, I've seen much of Indianny, but I'll bet you $10 that you're the ugliest man in the State." "Well, I hain't no gamblin' man," replied Joel, " but I hain't never seen

The Colonel's Mistake. A regiment quartered in Scotland had among them an expert gymnast, who taught his brother subalterns how to walk across the barrack room on their hands.

While thus engaged the other evening the door opened, and the colonel, a strict disciplinarian, entered the room, gazed attentively at the inverted company, shook his head gravely, and departed without uttering a word.

Some days passed, however, and no notice being taken, it was thought an apology and explanation should be offered by the prime instigator of these unsoldierlike movementa.

A reference being made to the memorable night, the colonel amazed the intending apologist by exclaiming:

"Hush, my dear fellow, I would not have anybody know it for the world. The fact is, I had been dining out with an old brother officer who had served with me in India, and, 'pon my life, I had no idea the wine could have had such an effect upon me; but when I looked in to see if you were all right in your quarters, I could have sworn that I saw you all upside down!"-Pearson's Weekly.

"Well, you're right," said Mr. Beecher; "every church has such men, and I fancy Plymouth is not free from them. And until you spoke I have always wondered why the good Lord permitted it. Now I understand."

"Ah," gurgled the young fellow, "l am glad I have thrown light on the question. What strikes you as the reason, Mr. Beecher?"

"Well," replied the great preacher, "It is permitted in order to keep just such fools as you out of the churches."

CANTON AND COURT HOUSE. Items of General Interest from the County

CANTON, Aug. 1.-The treasurer's office was opened this morning and business was resumed as usual, with Ephraim Pickens in charge. Mr. Pickens was appointed to succeed County Treasurer Jacob Geib, deceased, and his bond of $375,000 was accepted by the commissioners on Saturday.

During the year ending July 1, 1838, there were 801 cases commenced in court and 976 were disposed of. At the close of 1897, 535 cases were pending and the number pending on July 1, 1898, is 360.

Treasurer Pickens has appointed T. Harvey Smith, of Massillon, his deputy. Mr. Smith was first deputy under the late Treasurer Geib.

James Cavanaugh retired from the management of the Reyman Brewing Company's grounds, at Meyer's lake, Sunday evening. The employes assembled before the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Cavanaugh and presented them with a silver tea set.

The first partial account has been filed in the estate of George Harsh, of Massillon. Appraisement and private sale of land has been ordered in the estate of John G. Warwick, of Massillon. E. G. Smith has been appointed administrator of the estate of Newton Clines, of Jackson township. Flavius V. Stover has been appointed administrator of the estate of Delilah Stover, of Canton.

Marriage licenses were granted Saturday to Ferdinand J. Race and Jennie Hall, of Massillon, and Harry C. Larson and Laura C. Harbert, of Canton.

That speed, it is evident, was sufficient to enable the American battleship to gain steadily upon the fastest of the Spanish vessels and so insure her destruction.

The nominal speed of the Cristobal Colon was about twenty knots. In the right hands and under proper care it is probable that the fine cruiser could have made nineteen knots when she went into her last fight. Yet she was overhauled by a ship much slower, originally than any of the four Spanish | the stars and stripes for the first time vessels. The three cruisers of the class in its history. > Investigation of the wrecks of the Spanish cruisers destroyed off the Cuban coast near Santiage shows that not more than one large shell in every five or six fired by the American ships hit the mark aimed at or damaged the Spanish vessels seriously. Complete returns of the number of shots med by the American squadron may show that the proportion of hits with the heavy guns was not over one in every ten shots. The water was smooth and the weather was fine, and it is admitted on all sides that the gunnery of the American vessels was as good as any could be hoped for on ships of war. Therefor it may be considered certain that the number of shells which will ever hit and seriously injure a modern fighting ship must be very small, in comparison with the shots fired. This means that in a moderately short fight between warships few large shells will ever reach the mark. Obviously, these facts show that a greater share of the work of a modern naval engagement must be done by the small, rapidfire guns than such ordnance has ever been expected to do, by laymen. The ratio between hits and unsuccessful shots may be about the same with small guns that it is with great cannon, but the number of small projectiles is so vast that many get home with terrible effect. It is not strange that the experts of the United States navy now say that the small gun batteries of battleships are of supreme in the fourteenth edition of the "Directory of the Iron and Steel Works of the United States" issued by the American Iron and Steel association have been published in advance. They contain some facts that will be a surprise to those not in close connection with the iron and steel trade. One of these facts is the decrease in number and great increase in capacity of the pig iron furnaces within a few years. Six years ago there were 569 blast furnaces on the active list, with a production of 9,157,00 gross tons of pig iron. During the first six months of the present year there have been less than 200 furnaces in active operation, but the production of pig iron has been at the rate of a million tons a month. Thus, with a decrease of sixty-five per cent. in the number of active furnaces there has been an increase of seventeen per cent. in actual production. A number of new furnaces are under construction, and when these are completed the annual capacity will be increased to over 18,000,000 tons of pig iron, or double the production of six years ago, with much less than half the number of plants.

defense. In it are mounted some of which, in the hands of our gunners, will do wonderful execution, if there is ever an occasion to use them. The raising of the flag over this ancient Spanish fort was witnessed by the American officers amidst the greatest enthusiasm. The act marks an epoch in the history, not alone of Cuba, but of our own country as well, for it is the beginning of a new era in our history in which we shall reach out and become one of the great and respected powers of the world.

Whatever may be the result to the United States as a whole, respecting the annexation of Hawaii, there can be no question as to its advantage to American holders of Hawaiian bonds. The Hawaiian debt is in the neighborhood of $4,000.000. By the act of annexation the United States assumed that debt, stipulating it should not be in excess of $4,000,000. Before annexation was practically certain the Hawaiian bonds were reported at a heavy discount. The passage of the annexation resolution brought them up to par. There may have been no connection between the Hawaiian bonds and he vote; there certainly has been a decided influence by the vote on the market price of the bonds. This may have been merely "an innocent coincidence." but it was a decidedly good thing for the bondholders.

SUMMER DAIRYING.

Experience With the Cows When First Turned Out to Grass.

Some things are worthy of note for the lessons they convey as the cows go out of winter quarters from dry feed to summer pasture with its green and succulent food. One thing noticeable -prominently so-in turning the cows to pasture this May was the rapid increase in the flow of milk. From a full ration of good hay with three quarts of corn meal and three quarts of bran a day in two feeds, at the barn, to summer pasture with discontinuance of both hay and grain entirely at the expiration of ten days, the flow of milk has been not only kept up all the time ing me just but a steady increase from the fourth what to do. I or fifth day after turning to pasture, followed your direct to the 10th of June was very perceptitions, and cannot praise your medicine ble. We turned the cows to pasture May 18, with feed well started and growing fast. Clover wintered uncommonly well iast winter in this locality, hence, wherever the white clover grows there is a thick mass of nice feed. The nuery arises--would it have been better to continue the grain ration along through the summer. My opinion is lots of sick women struggle on with that the increase in butter product from continuance of the grain ration in Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Southern would not pay the cost, that is, though the flush of feed say up to last of July. If I were going to feed any grain at the commencement of summer pasturage it would be cottonseed meal in preference to any other. I may be wrong in this but my conjecture is that butter of firmer texture and solidity would result. Early summer pasturage makes soft butter. We are told that the characteristics of the cow gives the color to the butter fat, but I iotice as the pasture feed becomes more mature there is a preceptible change in the shade of yellow in the ream and butter from week to week. This change is so apparent that from ising a quantity of butter color in March and April, the quantity is lessened now each week and by the end of June when feed and cows have attained normal conditions, no coloring will be necessary as the butter will be up to standard requirements in that pardeular, at least for our local market. There is no doubt but milk-and for that matter butter fat-is more cheapy produced in summer than in winer. But there are some disadvantages ittending summer dairying. Not all pastures produce a uniformity of nice sweet herbage for the cows Buf flavors easily come to the cream from this

A recommended treatment for milk fever is to make a brine of the strength used for curing meat, and with a soft cloth swab internally. Then take a sheet or hemp carpet, dip in a tub of strong brine and fold to several thicknesses so that the brine will be retained as long as four or five hours, and place over the loins. The water used for both internal and external treatment should be fresh from the well. If the swabbing is done in a proper manner and promptly, and the pack kept in place for a few hours, the patient gets well every time.

Curing Oats and Pess. While oats and peas sown together make good hay, the difficulty lies in the fact that the curing is very hard to perform properly. The peas contain, when cut, such a mass of water in the stems, that before curing has advanced ; far enough to make good hay, the leaves all drop off. If the peas can be cut in the forenoon after the dew has dried off, and be allowed to lie until afternoon of the next day and then be put up in bunches and allowed to sweat for two days, then the bunches opened out and the peas dried once more, a good quality of hay can usually be secured. But this presupposes that the weather is to be fine all the time.-Country Gentleman.

THREATEN TO STRIKE. Pittsburg Operators Must Conform with the Chicago Scale.

The officials of the mine workers' organization have given the operators of the Pittsburg district until August 10 to conform with the provisions of the Chicago agreement, otherwise a strike will be ordered. Mr. Samuel Jones, mayor of the city of character. He was born in Wales, but when he was three years old his parents took him to America, and he was brought up in the oil regions of Pennsylvania. He began as a boy to bore for oil, and those of Pennsylvania have not been continued in that business until a few years ago, when he made a mechanical invention and turned his attention to the manufacture of the apparatus. None of the manufacturers to whom he applied would have anything to do with his patent-a fact which disproves the theory that trusts and monopolies are always ready to encourage improvements of the kind-and he was obliged to go to Toledo, a town of over 100,000 inhabitants, and build a factory of his own. Here Mr. Jones had his first experience of city their trade almost as the non-union coal life. In the oil fields society was simple, of West Virginia. A well-known coal and there was little distinction between man stated this morning that unless the employer and employed; but at Toledo Pennsylvania miners succeed in making he was surprised to see that men of means looked down on their "hands' His business acquaintances, when they showed him their factories, paid no more attention to the men than if they had been made of wood, and he noticed in every shop a list of "rules," which seemed to him degrading to the men, and which always closed with the warning that any one failing to comply with them would forthwith be discharged. Jones's blood began to boil, and he made up his mind to run his shops on another system. After weeks of hesitation he felt impelled to put rules in his own factory, and as he is as absolutely devoid of cant as any man living, we may believe him when he says that he did not post them until he was unable to resist the impulse to do so. They are brief and to the point, and read as fol-

"Whatsoever ye will that men shall do o you. do ye even so to them.'

It is easy to fancy what occasion for gossip these "rules" have given to the worthy citizens of Toledo.

The best way to give an idea of the way in which Mr. Jones tries to carry out his rules is to relate a few of the anecdotes about him which are going the rounds and which are all authentic. When he first established his company he satdown with his foreman to settle the rate of wages and other details. The foreman took a paper out of his pocket and said: "Mr. Jones, here are the wages that are paid by other manufac-

"Now, suppose we could take a stick and make a good citizen for the state of Ohio out of it, don't you think that would be even a better piece of work than making sucker rods?"

"Well, I don't know. Perhaps it would.

"I think so, at any rate. Send Brown to me when he comes.'' Shortly after Brown turned up, thoroughly ashamed of himself, and naturally expecting a sound berating and immediate discharge. He was sent to the office and Jones shut the door. He then went to the desk, took out a testament, and read to the astonished man the account of the interview between Jesus and the woman taken in adultery, end-

A few weeks later I received an invitation, engraved in the usual style of "swell" functions, announcing that Mr. and Mrs. Jones requested the pleasure of my company on a certain evening to meet the employes of the Acme Sucker Rod Company at their new residence, a kind of invitation which was certainly a novelty to me.

The result of all these proceedings was, to the surprise of Mr. Jones, the politicians and every one else, his election to the mayoralty a year ago. He was opposed as a dargerous man and a crank by the "respectable" portion of the community, but his men formed a glee club and may be said to have sung him into office. As a man who has had experience of business affairs, and also of things political, Mr. Jones bas formed some opinions which may be of general interest. He is not satisfied with his essays in either field. He recognizes the fact that his ability to treat his men better than others are treated comes from his patents, and he thinks that natents will have no place in the kingdom of heaven, and although he seems to most observers to have attained the ideal of all truism, as a matter of fact he is as uncomfortable as Lot in Sodom. In politics he is still more dissatisfied, and while his admirers are talking of nominating him for governor of Ohio, he is beginning to doubt the expediency of attempting to make the world better by force, even if the force be veiled under legislative enactments and municipal regulations. Recently Mr. Moody led a "revival" at Toledo and stirred up the good christians of that town to hanker after the scalps of the public house keepers who fail to close their bars on Sunday. The mayor has shown lit le enthusiasm in this crusade. believing that the evil of drink should be attacked in other ways. These things have set him to thinking, and we may expect further interesting chapters in his history.-National Tribune.

The importance of this will perhaps more clearly appear when it is remembered that the amount expended for station-ery for the year, covered by this investigation, is One Thousand Seven Hundred and Thirty-eight Doliars and Thirty-five Cents ($1,738.35). This does not include postage furnished to the various offices, which is a considerable item.

We find that the Commissioners do not keep a letter file or a letter copying book. Much material is purchased away from home, and the business and contracts are made by curespondence; yet neither the letters received, nor copies of those sent out are retained and preserved. We would recommend that the Commissioners supply themselves with letters

In the case of Clark vs. The Board of County Commissions of Lucas County, recently decided by our Supreme Court,

"Clerks of Courts are entitled to be paid out of the County Treasury, for keeping up, continuing, and thereby completing the general indexes direct and reverse, of all judgments, final orders and decrees as mentioned in Section 1263, Revised Statutes; but such Clerks are not entitled to payment out of the County Treasury, for keeping up and continuing the alphabetical index of pending suits and living judgments, provided for in Sections 1255 and 1266, Revised Statutes. Nor are such Clerks entitled to payment out of the County Treasury, for making direct and reverse indexes to executions issued by such Clerks." 'Clerks of Courts are entitled to be paid out of the County making direc such Clerks.'

making direct and reverse indexes to executions issued by such Clerks."

An examination of the Commissioners' report, shows that our Clerks have been charging the County not only for "keeping up, continuing, and thereby completing the general indexes direct and reverse, of all judgments, final orders and decrees as mentioned in Section 1263." but have also been charging for "keeping up and continuing the alphabetical index to pending suits and living judgments, provided for in Sections 1255 and 1256, Revised Statutes," and "for making direct and reverse indexes to executions." The Clerk and his predecessor are not to blame for having fallen into this error, as these charges were based upon an opinion given some years ago by the then Attorney General of the State of Ohio, and since their attention has been called to this decision of the Court, we are glad to say that they have signified their entire willingness to re-imburse the County for the moneys improperly drawn as aforesaid. This opinion of the Attorney General has been followed throughout Ohio.

COUNTY AUDITOR:

Under another and very recent decision of the Supreme Court, it is held that the County Auditor "is not entitled to extra compensation from the Treasury of the County, for services in making the report for the County Commissioners of their financial transactions required by Section 917 of the Revised Statutes." We find that the County Auditor and his predecessor have made a charge for this work, and also a charge for indexing the Commissioners' journal. Prior predecessor have made a charge for this work, and also a charge for indexing the Commissioners' journal. Prior to this decision, the Statutes were obscure as to just what the Auditor's rights were in the premises, and the universal precedent throughout nearly all, if not all, of the Counties of the State, was to make charges for these services, and the same have received the sanction of many precedents. We are glad to say also, that as soon as attention was called to this decision, the delinquent parties immediately signified their intention of refunding the money improperly drawn. Again:

CORONER: The Statute pertaining to the Coroner's duties, Section

The Statute pertaining to the Coroner's duties, Section 1221, provides that:

When information is given to any Coroner, that the body of a person whose death is supposed to have been caused by violence, has been found within the County," he shall proceed in such case to hold an inquest. The word "found" has been construed by the Circuit Court of Franklin County, to mean "being present in the County." The same court also holds that the word "violent" as used in this Section, means "unlawful use of physical force or other agency, causing death. It does not include mere accident or casualty." The Court further held in this case that "the Coroner is authorized to hold an inquest upon a dead body lying in his County, when he knows or has reason to suppose, the death was caused by unlawful means."

We recognise the fact that a Coroner cannot determine positively whether a death is a proper subject of inquest, prior to the completion of his testimony, in all cases, but it seems to us from an examination of the testimony filed in some of these cases, that they were not proper subjects of inquest, and that the County should not have been to the expense thereof. The purpose of an inquest is to determine whether a death was caused by unlawful means. In several of the cases in which inquests were held, it would seem that the Coroner should have known that an inquest was not necessary. To illustrate:

In one case an old man slipped and fell on the ice, was picked up by those who saw him fall, and he died on the succeeding day, from the effect of the fall.

In another case, the deceased was in his barn during a storm, with some of his family near him, was struck by lightning and killed.

In another case a boy was bathing in a stream with a number of companions around him; was seized with a cramp,

In another case, a girl fell off a load of hay in the presence of several presons, was run over by the wagon and died. In several other cases inquests were held on men and women who dropped over dead with heart trouble. We of course cannot tell from the records what information the Coroner had prior to the holding of the inquest, which induced him to hold it, and therefore do not, and cannot question his motives, but we believe that ordinarily in cases such as are above referred to, the Coroner ought to be able to determine that his services were not needed. The costs of inquests during the year, amounted to over Fourteen Hundred Dollars ($1,400.00), of which the Coroner drew Seven Hundred and Eighty-three Dollars and Sixty-five Cents ($783.65), and his constable got One Hundred and Fifty-five Dollars and Fifty-five Cents ($155.55). In another case, a girl fell off a load of hay in the pres-

WORKHOUSE.

This institution is controlled by a Board of Trustees appointed by the County Commissioners. The direct management is delegated to this board, which manages all its affairs, furnishes its supplies, selects its officers and employes, and certifies its bills to the County Commissioners. The bills are paid quarterly by the County, out of the Treasury thereof, upon the certificate of the Secretary, and upon the approval of the County Commissioners. This institution has been passing through the experimental stage, and has been a source of great expense to the County. A source of considerable expense has been the road improvement, which has been done under the direction of the Board of Trustees. We believe that this has been too expensive for the corresponding benefit derived therefrom.

We understand, however, that considerable change has been made in the manner of employing prisoners, and of operating this institution, and it is believed that much of the vast expense will hereafter be avoided. We think that prisoners should not be brought from other counties, unless sufficient revenue should be derived from them, to save Stark County from all expense caused by their maintenance.

PUBLIC PRINTING.

The expenditure for public printing other than blanks and

The expenditure for public printing other than blanks and stationery, for the year ending the first Monday of September, 1897, amounts to Three Thousand Five Hundred and Nine Dollars and Forty Cents ($3,509.40). We believe that there is need for radical legislation on the subject of the expense of public printing, and that there is no necessity for much of the printing which is now required by our Statutes.

Respectfully submitted.

ATLEE POMERENE,
Prosecuting Attorney,
JAMES J. CLARK,
FRANK L. BALDWIN.

DETERMINED TO CELEBRATE.

Whooping by Proxy After He Had Lost

His Voice. A well-dressed young man, decidedly under the influence of liquor, rushed excitedly into one of the shady places on the cocktail route last night. At his heels followed another young fellow, who bore all outward semblance to a hired mourner at a funeral.

"Give us some red liquor, barkeep," ordered the exhuberant individual in a hoarse whisper, as he dragged two or three acquaintances to the bar, while the melancholy young man stood respectfully behind him.

"This is my birthday, and I've been whooping it up till I've lost my voice. Holler, William." 'Whoop-ee!" yelled the mourner, without a change of countenance.

"Whoop-pee! Wowh!" shouted Wil-

"That's good. Come on, William. Let's move along. We've got to get in a lot of whooping yet. Don't you let that voice of yours get husky or you'll lose your job If you commence feeling raspy around the neck, take a little lemon juice and gum. Holler again, William."

"Yow, wow! Whoop-pee! Wowh!" "Great work, William. Come on," said the young man and his hired howler disappeared.-San Francisco Post.

Not in Harmony.

I cannot too forcibly advise great care in the selection of styles, says a writer in the Upholsterer. An uncle of mine became rich, and spent an immense amount of money in furnishing his drawing-room in pure Louis XV. style. Everything was costly and accurate. He spent eighteen months on the task. When it was finished, he asked a friend, a great art critic, to dinner, and afterward tok him up stairs and showed him the room-his triumph. The critic examined everything carefully, and at last gave a sigh, and said:

"Everything, my dear sir, in this room is genuine, perfect, and harmonious, save one."

"What is that?" said my uncle. The critic took him by the hand and led him to a large mirror. He looked in, and the reflection showed a short, stout, bald man in the orthodox claw-hammer coat, "boiled rag" shirt, and biack trousers of men's evening dress. "The one discordant, irreconcilable thing-the one utterly inharmoniousis yourself. Are you Louis XV. in style?" My uncle looked in the mirror for a moment, then groaned and walked straight out of the room. Since that day no one can induce the poor man to put his foot in the drawing-room, and the rest of the house is furnished in the most heterogeneous manner conceivable.

Logs vs. "Mealers."

A summer visitor in Mt. Desert fell into conversation with a native who was busily engaged in doing nothing. "How in the world do you manage to make a living here?" inquired the summer visitor, when the conversation had become somewhat confidential.

"Waal, stranger," said the native, slowly, "there ain't anything to make hereabouts, true to say. But, ye see, in winter I haul logs and in summer I haul mealers, an' 'twixt them two I manage to scrape along."

"Mealers?" repeated the visitor,

doubtfully. "Cottage folks that take their meals to the hotels an' ain't got strength to walk haif a rod," explained the native. "Ah! And which do you enjoy better, summer or winter?" inquired the summer visitor.

The practicability of the scheme was supported by many facts. It was proved that an inland sea had covered in ancient times the area which it was intended to flood. The level of the land was generally below that of the Gulf of Gabes. Innumerable underground streams of fresh and salt water are found in the southern part of Algeria

And they were both kickers. In a few moments there was a grand rush, and after the wreck was cleared away Algernon Debrassei was taken from the ruins in a state of coma.

He was carried to the field hospital and a cursory examination made of All at once he hissed through his set teeth. "Aha!" On the front of Algernon's person was imprinted in distinct outlines the ; actor thought not of caste or family.

Then Melville Mellington stepped to the door of the hospital and, casting "I met Count de Lesseps," he said, his eye to the grand stand, he shook

A CURIOUS FLY.

Propolled Through the Air by Twin Screws.

This is not an imaginary creature, as some might suppose. It is, however, one of the most extraordinary creatures in the world and the only one of its kind. Its owner, a former governor of Portland prison, was a keen collector of sorts of beetles and winged insects. Once during his wanderings in Brazil he chanced upon what seemed to him a dragon fly of somewhat unusual shape. Catching it in his net, he found to his astonishment that in addition to its wings it had twin archimedian screws, one on each side of its long body, which revolved in the same manner as a ship's screw.

On his return to England he was offered $1,500 for it by the authorities of the British Museum. Being a man of wealth he declined the offer and made it the centre ornament of a beautiful collection of tropical insects. Unfortunately, in capturing it two of the blade, were broken off one of the screws; othenwise it was in perfect preservation.

The True Story of Cimierella-

At Orrville connection is made with C., A.& C. Ry, train for Cleveland by Nos. 6, 8, 32 and for Columbus by Nos. 4, 8, 9, 15, 20, 31 and 32. Nos. 9 and 15 connect at Mansfield with trains over the Toledo Division for Villin and Toledo, Nos. 4 and 8 connect Alliance for Niles and Youngstown. The story of Conderella is familiar to every one, and yet there are rew that treasure it up as in any respect true. But it has a foundation and a reality that really needs no fairy godmother, with her pumpkin and her rats, dastardly deed has already been to make an interesting tale. It is as follows: "In about the year 1730, a French actor by the name of Thevenard, lived "'Tis well," he hissed through his in Paris. He was rich and talented, ters that he could present so finely on the stage.

One day, as he was walking leisurely ittle shoe.

He examined it well, but only to admire it more and more. He went to the stall of the cobbler again, but could learn nothing in regard to the owner of the shoe. This only increased his eagerness, and made him more determined to know to whom it belonged Day by day he was disappointed, but he was not discouraged. "At last the little foot needed the ittle shoe, and Thevenard met the owner, a poor girl, whose parents belonged to the humblest class. But the ardent His heart had already pronounced the little one his wife. He married the girl, with no question of what people would say, and felt joy enough in hearing the tread of the light nimble feet through his silent rooms, to pay him for the sacrifice of people's approval. This is the true story of Cinderella, and 'rom which the child romance sprang."

The Child in the Basket. The vigilance of an old-time custom official, it may be said, came, pernage, within an ace of changing the course of French history. One day a mother was had been to a country house near Marseilles returned with her son to Marseilles. It was twilight. The child, eight-years-old, had been put in a peach-basket borne by a donkey, and the mother, fearing the child might :ake cold-it was in November-had covered the boy with a thick brown shawl. Tired with runing around he country all day, cosy and warm under the thick shawl, the child was 4000 asleep and hidden by the sides of the pasket. When the city gates were neared, the mother, forgetting all about the thild, walked a distance behind the ionkey and did not make him stop at the Custom House to be searched. The customs officer, seeing the donkey jog on without stopping, suspected that he was laden with smuggled goods and can after him to thrust his sharp stee! probe through the basket. Luckily the mother observed him, ran forward and screamed: "Don't use your probe. My hild is in the basket." The child was Adolphe Thiers.--Wide-awake.

The state of the s

FRIEDRICHSRUHE, Germany, Aug. 8. -Emperor William and the empress attended the funeral services of Prince Bismarck yesterday.

Immense crowds had gathered from surrounding places and the country.

The presentations at the railroad crossing where the Bismarcks received the emperor and empress consumed about ten minutes, the emperor shaking hands with Count von Rantzau, the late prince's son-in-law, and other 1 latives of the deceased.

There was no cheering, but an uproar was caused by the excited conversation carried on among the crowds present.

Pastor Westphal of Brunstorf conducted the services in the death chamber according to the rites of the Reformed church. The text, in compliance with Prince Bismarck's desire, was from the first epistle of Paul, the apostle, to the Corintmans, chapter xv, verses 53 to 57, as follows:

"For this corruption must put on incorruption and this mortal must put on immortality.

"So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on unmortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, dearh is swallowed up in victory.

"O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory? "The sting of death is sin; and the strength of sin is the law. "But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus

The mourners present, including the imperial party, numbered from 30 to 40 persons.

Immediately after the service the emperor and empress and those who accompanied them immediately started for the new parace at Potsdam. Berlin, Aug. 3.-A sensation was created by the emperor yesterday afternoon, who telegraphed countermanding the Bismarck obsequies, which were to take place in front of the Reichstag building, and ordering instead that mourning services be held in the Em-peror William Memorial church The tradespeople and artists who had taken orders in connection with the former were sadly disappointed.

It was a mournful procession that defiled into the death chamber, Prince Herbert leading, with the empress and the emperor following with Princess Herbert, after whom came the privileged members of the imperial suite, and the wife and daughter of Dr. Schweninger and Baron Merck, in all about 30 personages.

Chairs were disposed around the catafalque and Pastor Westphal stood at the head of the coffin. When their majesties entered all knelt down around the coffin in silent prayer. Then a hymn was sung and Pastor Westphal delivered a discourse, extoling the deeds of the deceased prince. Another hymn and the benediction closed the simple ceremony.
